

SENATE DECIDES TO APPROVE OF WILSON'S NOTE TO THE POWERS

Long Fight Finally Ended When Senator Hitchcock Withdraws Resolution and Solons Adopt One Introduced by Jones

J. HAMILTON LEWIS WARNS UPPER HOUSE OF MENACE

Measure Is Passed By Strict Party Vote of Forty-eight To Seventeen After Parliamentary Battle Which Lasted Two Days

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless) WASHINGTON, January 6—Opposition to endorsement of the President's peace message was routed in the senate here yesterday when the resolution presented by Senator Jones of Washington was passed by a vote of forty-eight to seventeen.

The resolution of Senator Jones was a substitute for the resolution proposed by Senator Hitchcock on December 18 and while not approving the peace note of the president, approves the request of the belligerents to state their terms of peace.

The debate on the subject started early in the afternoon and while the result is considered as a slap at the President in refusing to endorse his peace note, it also is considered as a definite step in the desire of congress to learn from the belligerent nations upon just what terms they will discuss peace.

Beginning the parliamentary skirmishing, the senate on a strict party vote agreed to the motion of Senate Hitchcock to proceed to formal consideration of his resolution endorsing the President's note. This resolution was finally withdrawn and one introduced by Senator Jones adopted in its place.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, leading the fight for the President, declared the war cannot continue without the United States becoming involved in it. He declared that delay in opposition to the President's course is more injurious to the cause of peace than any other form of opposition that has arisen from other sources in the United States.

An authorized statement was issued yesterday by Secretary of State Lansing that the president does not contemplate sending another note to the belligerents suggesting an outline of terms of peace.

Despatches from London received here yesterday declared that hope that the German peace proposals would bring about peace conferences seems to be fading in Germany.

A significant utterance was that of the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger, the well-known Berlin paper which largely reflects official opinion.

The Anzeiger says that publication of the definite peace terms which Germany is willing to accept is useless. This paper takes the attitude that the recent utterances of the Allies, particularly of France, show that the terms would not be accepted in the Entente group. Especial mention is made of the action of the French senate in passing a vigorous resolution declaring that France cannot and will not make peace so long as the enemy is occupying French territory.

A Reuter's despatch from Amsterdam, telling of this incident, says that the Anzeiger considers that the Allies are refusing to discuss peace negotiations seriously.

DENIALS IN SWARMS FOLLOW CHARGES OF OFFICIAL LEAK

President's Brother-in-law and Joseph Tumulty, Wilson's Private Secretary Named By Accuser But Call Accusation Lie

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless) WASHINGTON, January 5—Hot and fast came the denials today of responsibility for the alleged "leak" from the state department or the White House to the stock market, just prior to the stock manipulations at the time of the President's peace move.

Congressman Wood, who introduced the resolution of inquiry on which the house rules committee is now acting, during his testimony brought in the names of Joseph P. Tumulty, the President's secretary; Bolling, the President's brother-in-law, and Bernard Baruch, a New York broker, who is said to have profited hugely in recent deals. Many other names were also brought in.

Wood asserted that he is making no charges, but presenting only the information he had received. He said the information came in a letter from A. Curtis, an independent New York operator. Tumulty, in a statement immediately afterward demanded an apology, denying the correctness of the charges. Bolling also denied them. Thomas W. Lawson will be heard on Monday. Tumulty has offered to appear before the committee. Wood said he was informed that a number of brokerage offices throughout the country had advance information.

Despatches from Charleston, South Carolina, say that Bernard Baruch has sent a statement to Chairman Henry of the house rules committee and declines further comment on the Wood charges.

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless) SAN FRANCISCO, January 5—A new and sensational turn was given today to the trial of German Consul General Bopp and his associates upon the "bomb-plotting" charges. Letters signed only "H. P." and otherwise anonymous were introduced by the defense, the letters promising that the mysterious "H. P." would surrender himself as the man who had dynamited the barge of explosives in Seattle, one of the crimes which witnesses for the prosecution have laid at the door of the German officials. The defense maintains that this "H. P." was responsible for the explosion, but the prosecution says this theory is "pure bunk" and that the letters were written by a crank.

POLES ANXIOUS FOR LIBERTY

Looking Forward To Having King

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless) BERLIN, January 6—It is understood here that Polish leaders in the empire who are interested in the formation of a separate kingdom for Poland are eagerly looking forward to the proclamation of a king. In the meantime the idea of a separate state, independent of other countries, is rapidly taking root among the Poles themselves.

It is believed here that the announcement of the formation of a council of state, composed of representative heads of various interests in Poland, will be made in a few days.

Throughout Germany the delay both in the proclamation of the kingdom and the formation of the council of state has cast a damper on the entire project of an independent Poland. Consequently, however, are using the opportunity afforded by the delays to oppose the project and are declaring that it is unwise to proclaim a separate kingdom at this time.

BOMB LOADED SHIP FOUND ADRIFT

Steamer Abandoned By Crew and Foe

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless) VIGO, Spain, January 6—Drifted abandoned at sea and with unexploded bombs scattered about in her hold and engine room, the Norwegian steamship Thyra was found yesterday by Spanish fishermen and rescued.

It was apparent that the Thyra had been captured by some German vessel and her crew either taken off or forced to put off in their small boats. There was nothing on the vessel when she was found by the fishermen that would indicate the fate of the crew. After seeing the crew of the vessel, the captors placed bombs where their explosion would sink her. But in some way they were frightened away before they had time to ignite the fuses, or else the bombs failed to explode. Probably an enemy mine-war appeared, and they were compelled hastily to leave the Thyra and flee.

HATCH EXPLAINS HOW HE WOULD MEET CITY DEBT

Hopes To See Overdraft Overtaken By March, But If Not Will Use Pruning Knife On All Expenditures Including Salaries

That the city government will be out of debt by the end of the fiscal year, even if there have to be radical cuts in salaries and the discharge of fifty employees to effect the necessary savings, is the declaration of Supervisor Hatch, who so writes to The Advertiser.

Judge Hatch would work on the present estimates until the end of March, with the understanding that there should be a sufficient saving in that time to enable the revenues to overtake the expenditures and cut down the present overdraft to the vanishing point. If that result has not come, then the pruning knife will be taken out and expenses arbitrarily reduced.

Editor Advertiser—I know I can depend on your good nature to allow a brief addition to the statement of my views touching municipal finances as published in yours of today's date, viz: The prospects are, according to Hatch, that at the end of the term of the present board would be wiped out. This statement standing by itself seems almost simple. The debt is not inherited. It is of our own making. The idea I attempted to express was: There is strong probability that on March 1 the adverse balance will have disappeared. $51,000 in one item is provided for by making no appropriation from general funds for roads during the coming six months, the last of the fiscal year.

But if there shall turn out to be a wrong balance on March 1, it will be wiped out by making such radical cuts in salaries and discharge of employees as may be necessary to square the account.

This is a matter of definite assurance. No room is left for doubt on this point. The account will be brought to balance without act from the legislature. The appeal which is to be made to the legislature will be on behalf of the city and county can be properly made for the next two years on the same amount of money as was considered sufficient by the legislature two years ago for the biennial period now coming to an end.

Police Bullet Halls Boy Runaway From Oahu Reform School

William Kaimoa, eighteen years old, and a fugitive from the reform school, a back behind the bars and likely to remain there until he is returned to the custody of the authorities from whom care he fled some three or four months ago, and a bullet from the pistol of Policeman Daniels did the trick. At that Kaimoa is not badly injured, a slight flesh graze along his right shoulder is the only physical sign that he had been under fire, he carries.

Kaimoa ran away from the reform school some months ago and since then has been drifting from place to place in Honolulu. Yesterday he was at the corner of Kaunamuanu Street when he was "spotted" by one of the officers of Judge Whitney's court, who in turn pointed him out to Daniels.

The police officer called to the lad to surrender, but Kaimoa thought liberty best and ran. The policeman followed and seeing that he was losing he drew his pistol and fired on him at the ground, he says.

The bullet must have glanced off the officer's arm have been poor for the shot drew a long angry red mark along the shoulder of the fleeing youth, who stopped dead on the instant.

LAST RUMANIAN FORTRESS FALLS INTO HANDS OF TEUTONIC ARMY

Braia In Extreme Northeastern Corner of Little Baltic Kingdom Swept Clean of Its Defenders By the Advancing Enemy

WHOLE OF COUNTRY NOW AT MERCY OF INVADERS

Entire Danube River In Germanic Possession, and Last Fragments of Wallachia Are Being Taken Piece After Piece by Foes

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless) NEW YORK, January 6—Rumania is now in the hands of the German armies, Braia, last of the fortresses held by King Ferdinand has fallen and the whole line of the Danube from the Iron Gate to the mouth in the Black Sea is in the power of the invaders.

Only in some few sections of Wallachia do the natives of the country and their allies, the Russians still manage to hold back the tide of invasion, but even there, the German official reports say, they are falling back as rapidly as possible in an effort to escape the enveloping jaws of the rippers which the Teutonic commanders are extending toward them.

This to all intents and purposes is Rumania in the same class as Belgium and Serbia, for there hardly a corner of the country into which the Teutonic legions have not penetrated, nor any portion of it which they do not hold.

The attack upon Braia must have been sudden, and the defender forces evidently did not make any serious effort to hold the city, or yesterday afternoon the reports from the Berlin general staff announced merely that the Rumanians and Russians were retreating in the direction of the city. The night reports made the official statement that the city had fallen, but gave few if any details.

The Berlin official statement issued last night also told of minor fighting upon the Western front. At the Loos salient the German aiding parties have been active of late and yesterday they succeeded in entering the British lines and reaching the fourth trench line before they were discovered and driven out. They also succeeded in taking fifty prisoners with them when they withdrew, and blew up behind them some of the British defense works.

Official announcement yesterday in Berlin says that the Teutons after hard fighting have pierced the Russian positions at the bridgehead leading to the Rumanian town of Braia.

Four more Rumanian towns have been captured and one thousand and four hundred more soldiers made prisoner.

Four Russian attacks near Dvinsk have been repulsed, and the battle on this front is continuing.
